as Another
Still Seized

The Hempstead County Sheriff's Department announced that at 11:15 the morning of May 17, 1971 a still was seized about 3 miles southwest of Washington.

Destroyed in the raid was a 125-gallon still pot, a 30-gallon still pot, seven wooden fermenters and approximately 180 gallons of mash.

The still was in operation and arrested at the site were Leonard Patton, 60, and Edgar Henry, 50.

This seizure stemmed from a joint investigation of the federal, ABC and the sheriff's department.

Sharing of Revenue Picks
Up StrengthBy JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's special revenue-sharing bill for manpower has been given new life in a surprise show of strength by House Republicans and southern Democrats.

The coalition overrode the Democratic leadership Tuesday and forced the manpower measure onto the floor after many Democrats thought it had been safely pigeonholed.

Some Democrats promptly charged the Southerners traded their votes on the manpower bill in return for later GOP help in trying to kill a civil rights bill. The Republicans denied knowledge of any such arrangement.

The successful maneuver made the administration bill a substitute for a $4 billion public service employment bill that is a keystone of the economic program being developed by congressional Democrats.

Unwilling to risk a vote on either bill at this time, the Democratic leadership laid them both aside indefinitely in that hopes that a delay will lead to increased support for the jobs bill.

With unemployment remaining high, Democrats thought the time was ripe for passage of their bill. It would create 150,000 jobs in such fields as education, health care, conservation and pollution control.

A similar bill already has passed the Senate.

The bill was brought to the floor under a rule that would have prevented the Republicans from offering their manpower bill as a substitute. The Nixon proposal is a sweeping measure, wrapping a dozen existing manpower programs into one

Phuc said captured prisoners and defectors reported the North Vietnamese had about 50 tanks hidden in caves along the frontier. They also said they thought the North Vietnamese had missiles in the region, but "they did not give confirmation," Phuc said. These could be conventional ground-to-ground rockets that are sometimes fired at aircraft and mistaken for the Russian surface-to-air missiles, or SAMs.

Asked if the South Vietnamese troops would cross into Laos, Phuc said: "Maybe, but I'm not sure."

He said thus far there is no major U.S. support but bombers and helicopter gunships will be called when needed, should the ground troops uncover a lucrative target.

South Vietnamese Firebase 6, just to the southeast of Ben Het, underwent a 17-day siege last month by North Vietnamese operating from the target area of the new operation.

Brother Who Took
GI's Place in Vietnam
Is Home, Faces ArmyBy LYNN NEWLAND
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A young man from Maine who took his brother's place in the Army but was found out returns to the United States today after nearly a month in Vietnam.

No charges were filed against 22-year-old Wesley Storer of Yarmouth, Maine, who arrived in Saigon aboard a military flight April 21 after assuming the identity of his brother, Spec. 4 Glenn Storer, 21.

Glenn was left behind in the United States, where he had gone April 10 for a two-week leave.

At home in Yarmouth, Glenn had described the war to his brother: "Try to imagine the worst thing in your mind ... and it's twice as bad as that ... It's unbelievable and unreal."

Wesley said he decided to do something about his brother's discontent.

"We decided that I would go to Vietnam in Glenn's place while he stayed in the States and tried to figure a way to get out of the Army legally," Wesley said.

After three days in a replacement center in South Vietnam, Wesley was shipped to Chu Lai, headquarters of the Americal Infantry Division.

From there he was taken by truck to Hawk Hill, the home of his brother's unit, Echo Company, 2nd Battalion, 1st Infantry Regiment, 196th Infantry Brigade.

His brother's buddies immediately realized Wesley wasn't Glenn. And when a field operation was ordered for the next day, one of them was afraid Wesley would get hurt and told the first sergeant about the switch.

Wesley said he spent nine days in a detention cell at Chu Lai, then was allowed to help in the cleanup after Typhoon Wanda. He then moved in with a military police unit.

Glenn meanwhile turned himself in at Ft. Devens, Mass., and left Monday night for Vietnam. A military spokesman at Chu Lai said Glenn probably would be charged with being absent without leave.

Wesley, exempt from military service because of a skiing accident, observed: "Well, we thought it would work. Anyhow, it couldn't have been worse for Glenn, no matter what happened."

Turks Hunt Kidnappers of Envoy

ISTANBUL (AP) — Police combed wide areas of Turkey for left-wing politicians and intellectuals today in the hunt for the kidnappers of Israeli Consul-General Ephraim Elrom. More than 400 arrests were made.

No clues were reported to the whereabouts of the 58-year-old Israeli, who was seized by the Turkish People's Liberation Army on Monday. But the government announced the arrest of one of the kidnappers, a student, and the search continued in Istanbul and its environs.

The kidnappers threatened to shoot Elrom Thursday night if the government does not release all political prisoners by then.

The government said it would not bargain with the kidnappers and warned that imprisoned terrorists might be executed if Elrom is harmed.

In a speech Wednesday marking the 52nd anniversary of the Turkish war of independence, President Cevdet Sunay said Turkey has "never been the pawn or victim of traitors or misguided persons."

"Those who are attempting to bring down the state will meet an inevitable fate," he said.

The Cabinet met in emergency session early Wednesday, its third in 24 hours. The Security Council also held a three-hour meeting to discuss public security.

Police sirens sounded throughout Istanbul during the night as troops and police kept up spot checks and searches for the kidnappers and their victim. Buses were stopped, and house-to-house searches were made in some suburbs.

The search was concentrated on the upper-class outlying suburbs because previous kidnappings in Ankara were held in such areas.

JACKSONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — A court-martial is to begin Thursday for Sgt. Richard C. Blankenship of Little Rock Air Force Base in connection with the shooting March 30 of Airman L. C. Bernard A. Gracy.

Gracy was shot through the heart with a .38-caliber pistol during the changing of the guard at a missile site near Mount Vernon. Gracy survived the shooting.

I-30 Link May Be Finished
by Year-End

"Everything depends upon the weather, but if it's good this Summer and Fall Interstate 30 highway could be finished between Hope and Prescott, a matter of 17 miles, by Jan. 1, 1972, John Tallant, district engineer for the State Highway Dept., said today.

The unfinished link runs from KXAR Radio, State Highway 29 North, to junction with completed I-30 at its intersection with State Highway 18 on the north side of Prescott.

The incomplete link is in various stages of construction, with five contractors involved, Mr. Tallant added.

Here are the contractors: Bracco &amp; W.K. Ingram Construction Co., Highway 29 to Emmet interchange, 5.4 miles, doing grade work and nearing completion.

Ben M. Hogan Construction Co., Inc., Hy. 29 to Emmet interchange 5.4 miles, doing surfacing, just started.

W.L. Sharp Construction Co., Inc., Emmet interchange to Highway 332, 6.1 miles, doing grading and drainage structures, about 75 per cent complete.

T.L. James &amp; Co., Inc., surfacing contractor, hasn't started.

Reynolds &amp; Williams, Inc., has a turn-key contract from Hy. 332 to Hy. 19, 2.9 miles. About 50 per cent of the aggregate work is done, and a little of the base is completed.

The company stuck with previous estimates of about 30,000 layoffs in its own plants and those of subcontractors if it fails to win federal backing for $250 million private loans needed to complete the L1011 Tristar and survive huge cost overruns by Rolls-Royce Ltd., bankrupt British maker of Tristar engines.

The Lockheed memo also cited what the company called numerous "partial precedents" for government aid to troubled businesses, including a 1947 loan to Martin Aircraft, $75 million in 1967 guarantees to Douglas.

As the Lockheed memo circulated Tuesday the administration's loan-guarantee request was described by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., as a grave threat to free enterprise.

Even if Lockheed is forced to cancel the Tristar, Proxmire said in a Washington speech, most if not all discharged Lockheed workers would be able to find jobs with McDonnell-Douglas which is building a competitor for the Tristar—the DC10—only 30 miles from Lockheed's Burbank, Calif., plant.

Proxmire said the administration's bill, due for scrutiny by the House and Senate Banking committees in the next few weeks, "is really a bail-out of Rolls Royce and the British government at the expense of the United States."

In a Senate speech, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said the proposal "should be named the Big Business Welfare Act of 1971."

U.S. Debt Greater Than Combined Debt of Entire World

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, the world's wealthiest nation, may choke on its debts, says Sen. Allen Ellender, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The Louisiana Democrat told his colleagues Tuesday the current national debt of nearly $400 billion is like a mountain so big it can't be seen.

"That is a sum greater than the debt of all the other countries in the world," Ellender declared.

He said he had put his staff and a bank of computers to work to make the size of a $400 billion debt more comprehensible, with these results:

—"If every member of the United States Senate counted two, one-dollar bills every second of every minute of every hour of every day of every week, it would take approximately 64 years to count $400 billion."

—"If the senators worked the standard work year eight hours per day for 260 days a year taking no coffee breaks, or holidays or vacations, it would take them 267 years to accomplish the same count."

—"at its current capacity, it would take the Bureau of Printing and Engraving about 171 years to print 400 billion one."

Law & Order
Man Wins in
PhiladelphiaBy LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Riding the law-and-order theme, former Police Commissioner Frank L. Rizzo defeated a young liberal congressman and a black lawyer for the Democratic nomination for mayor of Philadelphia in a record outpouring of primary voters.

It ended a bitter campaign in which Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp intervened in a last-ditch gamble to derail Rizzo and end what he called backroom, boss politics. He said the self-styled "tough cop" led forces of fear that could tear the nation's fourth largest city apart.

With 99 per cent of the vote counted, Rizzo had 176,621; U.S. Rep. William J. Green, whom Shapp backed, 127,902; State Rep. Hardy Williams, a lawyer and the only black candidate, 45,026.

Five others on the ballot three of whom withdrew too late to get their names off, received a combined 11,000 votes, leaving Rizzo with less than half the total cast.

The turnout Tuesday was 67 per cent of the 552,347 registered Democrats, of whom 188,000 are black and 58,000 Italian. Never before had more than 50 per cent turned out for a primary.

Rizzo told supporters he'd win "easily" in November against W. Thacher Longstreth, a former councilman and Chamber of Commerce official who easily won the Republican nomination.

Democrats outnumber Republicans 5 to 3 in Philadelphia and have held the mayoralty since they ended 60 years of GOP rule in 1951.

Labor Force
in Arkansas
Growing

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Employment Security Division reported Tuesday there was an additional 87,000 persons added to the civilian labor force in Arkansas during the period from 1950-1970.

The statistics appeared in a 20-year report on Arkansas' industrial progress that was issued by the ESD.

The report also showed that the number of unemployed persons in Arkansas increased slightly in the 20-year period — from 37,700 in 1950 to 37,800 in 1970 — but the unemployment rate declined from 5.9 per cent to 5.2 per cent.

The highest unemployment rate was 8 per cent in 1961 and the lowest was 3.7 in 1951.

Strike Over,
Rails Are Running Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Railroads restored most freight and passenger service today after a two-day nationwide strike, but coal mines remained closed and other industries lagged while awaiting fresh supplies for raw materials.

Spokesmen said it would be at least 24 hours before all mines were reopened in the West Virginia coal fields, and cereal manufacturers said it would be Thursday before some 3,500 furloughed workers returned.

In Detroit, American Motors canceled a shutdown order scheduled to take effect later today.

Ford put two plants—Kansas City and Lrain, Ohio—on an overtime basis in hopes of making up an estimated 2,400 cars and trucks whose production was lost due to the strike. Ford said only one of its plants—Dearborn, Mich., —was operating at less than capacity due to a parts shortage.

Chrysler said it was checking its plants.

General Motors said a Flint, Mich., Chevrolet factory would operate at half capacity today, but that two other Flint plants were to resume normal operations in the afternoon.

A return to normal mail service was signaled when the postal service lifted an embargo on long-distance bulk mail. In several cities rail service was restored for thousands of commuters for the first time in two days, and vehicular traffic moved smoothly in Chicago and New York.

Amtrak, the national passenger rail system, designed to improve service said all trains except four would operate on schedule today. The four will be in service Thursday.

Return of the railmen following passage of strike-ending legislation by Congress Tuesday night.

The AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen—representing about 2 per cent of the nation's rail employees struck at 6:01 a.m. Monday in a contract dispute.

As the trains stopped running, industry quickly felt the pinch.

The West Virginia Coal Association said that most of the smaller mines in the state had shut down by Tuesday.

Those mines were expected to remain closed for up to 24 hours more as the railroads work to remove the loaded coal hopper cars and bring in strings of empties.

Detroit automakers promised a return to full production "as soon as possible" but none of the big three firms could predict when that would be.

General Motors Corp., the nation's largest automaker, laid off 8,250 employees and put $83,100 more on short shifts because of shortages of raw materials.

Chrysler Corp. laid off some 2,000 employees and the Ford Motor Co. put eight plants on short time Tuesday.

His Desk Cleaned Up,
Hal Boyle Discovers
He's Frightened Man

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A clean desk is the sign of a frightened mind.

I've said this before, and I now say it again.

I was nearly scared out of my wits a month ago when, bowing to popular office demand, I let the vast hump of debris atop my desk be cleaned off.

That represented a tremendous sacrifice to me. To those around me that tower of rubble was only an eyesore and a needless mess. To me it was a mound of marvels, the many-layered story of my life. It represented conservation, sanctuary, security.

You'd think that with everybody else in America hellbent trying to throw everything away, anyone who tried to save something would be regarded as a hero. Not if he tries to save it on his desk!

The pressure mounted day by day. First came a parade of memos from paper clip Hitler sternly ordering that my desk pile be removed. I put the memos on top of the pile. Then the paper clip Hitler came in person and shouted in my ears until my head rang.

Then the fire department came and said spontaneous combustion was an imminent possibility, and they'd have to hose off the desk. Then a fellow in a false mustache who said he represented the federal government arrived and threatened to have the desk declared a national disaster area and bulldozed to the floor.

"Couldn't we just have it roped off and declared a national shrine?" I asked. No go.

Well, finally after telegrams for help to the American Civil Liberties Union and the U.S. Supreme Court brought no response, I caved in.

"All right, clean it off," I whispered brokenly. "We might SAIGON (AP) — A battalion of 700 elite South Vietnamese troops is combing an area on the Laotian border, searching for a major North Vietnamese base and command headquarters, military spokesmen announced today.

The operation got under way Tuesday in the central highlands about 10 miles northwest of Ben Het, and the South Vietnamese have found nothing significant so far, a military spokesman in Pleiku, Capt. Le Van Phuc, said.

Phuc said captured prisoners and defectors reported the North Vietnamese had about 50 tanks hidden in caves along the frontier. They also said they thought the North Vietnamese had missiles in the region, but "they did not give confirmation," Phuc said. These could be conventional ground-to-ground rockets that are sometimes fired at aircraft and mistaken for the Russian surface-to-air missiles, or SAMs.

Asked if the South Vietnamese troops would cross into Laos, Phuc said: "Maybe, but I'm not sure."

South Vietnamese Firebase 6, just to the southeast of Ben Het, underwent a 17-day siege last month by North Vietnamese operating from the target area of the new operation.

The vote to reject was 63 to 26.

The action came despite support for the amendment of Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., from Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, author of the proposal for a 50 per cent cut in U.S. troop strength in Europe at the end of 1971.

It underscored the view of White House backers they have enough votes to give President Nixon victory in his fight against any unilateral U.S. cut in its 300,000-man European force.

But a series of other votes remained on alternatives to Mansfield's troop cut proposal.

SST Future Looks Dark in Senate

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The American supersonic transport plane, flying on half a wing and not much of a prayer, faced up to another Capitol Hill showdown today. The opposing sides squared off for two hours of debate before voting late today on whether to go along with the House decision to revive the project.

An Associated Press survey had indicated almost certain defeat for the attempt to turn an $85.3-million SST termination fund into cash to renew the program. Most Senate leaders reached the same conclusion. Scientific fears of an environmental damage by a globe-circling fleet of SSTs were spelled out again in the renewed debate. And SST supporters were demoralized by Boeing Co. estimates a new start on the 1,800-mile-an-hour plane would cost the government $500 million to $1 billion.

Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chief congressional champion of the plane which was being built in his state, said in prepared remarks the Department of Transportation had estimated start-up costs for a new SST program at $200 million, lowest figure offered by any source. He suggested the estimate by Boeing—prime SST contract—was inflated for negotiation purposes.

The new round of SST debate came as a result of congressional action earlier this year cutting off federal subsidies for developing two prototypes of the faster-than-sound aircraft. Boeing and other contractors said they could not afford to continue development after federal funds were withdrawn March 31.

The House did a turnaround last week, voting 201 to 197 to renew SST funding.

SST opponents have used two arguments against the plane. They say the billion could be better spent, that the government has no business bankrolling a commercial development. And they argue the planes would be too noisy for health and could cause harmful changes in climate. Backers say the United States needs the

Restrictions on Jap Goods Still Likely

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Voluntary restraints on Japanese textile exports to the United States deserve a fair trial, but "it may well be that in the end, the Congress will have to approve statutory controls," Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Wednesday.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, steered a bill containing import quotas on textiles and shoes to House passage last year, but it died in the Senate.

In a speech prepared for a joint session of the South Carolina general assembly, he defended his subsequent action in helping work out a voluntary arrangement with Japanese textile industry leaders.

He told the legislators of one of the major textile producing states "I do not intend to see this great textile industry go down the drain."

Mills said a major problem is it is impossible to legislate quotas for a single product and to impose quotas more generally "could mean a complete reversal of this country's trade policy."

He said President Nixon put Congress in an almost impossible situation last year by asking for quotas on textiles but threatening to veto a bill that also provided such limits on other imports, such as shoes. As a result, Mills said, "The fate of the House-passed bill in the Senate was as predicted by many of us."

"The President apparently knows of another way to obtain the protection which the textile industry is seeking and, at the same time, prevent other protectionist developments from accompanying that relief, but I do not," Mills continued.

"He has not shared his views in this regard with us."

"I still hope that arrangements can soon be reached which will provide immediate restraints on imports of textiles into the United States," Mills said.

"I have expressed the hope that the declaration of the Japanese textile industry be given an opportunity to work and that the continued lack of decisive response to increases in imports of textiles will turn to statesmanlike decisions both on the part of the Japanese and our own government."

as well all go to hell with clean desks together."

The volunteer for this task was a fellow worker, Miss Dee Wedemeyer, a lovely and talented young writer from North Carolina, but so determined that she probably could have cleaned the Augean stables in three days less time than it took Hercules.

In five hours she removed every trace of the magical clutter it had taken me five hard years to accumulate.

"Isn't it beautiful!" she exclaimed.

There the desktop gleamed, bare as a baby's behind after a bubble bath. But beautiful? No, indeed.

I never have had such a feeling of utter fright. I stretched out my arms across that empty desk and knew a terrible ache of loneliness.

I missed my paper mountain of memories. I felt as exposed as a woman with a shaved head or an alligator crawling across Death Valley.

There was no place to hide. The telephone, ordinarily muffled by half a tone of junk, now stood clearly in view. I would have to start answering it again—the final indignity.

Well, in life there are compensations for every loss, and gradually I'm losing my fear and getting my old courage back.

In less than a month I've got my desk covered with a six-inch layer of fresh debris—wonderful, wonderful stuff.

I figure that if I work hard and fast enough I'll have a 10-foot pile of grab-bag charm built up before the office paper clip Hitlers start marching my way again. But this time they'll simply have to declare my desk a national monument—if not a shrine.

Surely there couldn't be a law on earth that would force a man to clean off his desk twice in one lifetime, could there?

AL GRAVES

Al Graves was the guest speaker at this week's Kiwanis Club meeting. He was presented by Kiwanian Jim McKenzie who arranged the program.

Mr. Graves gave a most interesting and thought provoking talk on Wills.

"It is not necessary to have a lawyer draw your will. A hand written and signed instrument written on a piece of scrap paper can be as binding a Will as one written by a skilled attorney," said Mr. Graves, "but it would be far better to have no will at all than to write one incorrectly."

The speaker gave a number of examples of incorrectly worded Wills that, when strictly interpreted by the courts, did not carry out the obvious intent of the one writing the Will or where the instrument actually hurt the one whom they had intended would benefit.

It was reported that the net profit from the recent Kiwanis Variety Show was $1,574.63, all of which will be used for Kiwanis Youth Programs and the Golden Age Club.

Judge Harold M. Mulvey of Superior Court said he would charge the jury today.

Seale and his codefendant, Ericka Huggins, both face potential death sentences on two charges—kidnaping resulting in death and aiding and abetting murder—in the death of a Panther the prosecutions says fellow Panthers suspected of being a police agent. Seale and Mrs. Huggins are also charged with conspiracy to kidnap and to murder.

Defense lawyers Tuesday depicted the state's chief witness, George Sams Jr., as the individual most responsible for the death of Alex Rackley on May 21, 1969, in a boggy river bottom 20 miles north of New Haven.

"It is your duty to evaluate every single witness by their demeanor and their manner and what they have to win or lose," Charles R. Garry, Seale's attorney, told the jury of five blacks and seven whites.

Sams and the state's other major witness, Warren Kimbro, have been allowed to plead guilty to second-degree murder, which carries a mandatory life sentence, in return for their testimony. They originally faced potential death sentences in Rackley's death.

With Mulvey's approval, the two men could vacate their guilty pleas—up to the time they are sentenced—and plead guilty to lesser charges.

Garry attacked the testimony of Nicholas Patore, a former New Haven policeman who said he saw Seale enter the local Panther headquarters shortly before the state alleges that Seale ordered Rackley slain.

Garry called Patore "a paid agent for the prosecution" because he now works as a county detective under State's Atty. Arnold Markle, the prosecutor. Garry also charged that Patore had not been at the headquarters the night Seale was in New Haven.

Markle told the jury that Garry attacked Patore's testimony only because the witness was a law enforcement official.

Circled Globe

The first around-the-world voyage by any American battle force was the voyage of the "great white fleet" of the U.S. Navy in 1907-1909. President Theodore Roosevelt had a dual plan—to give the fleet unique training and to show the world the power that had been built in Spain.

ference to "rally all the people of good will who consider their primary responsibility to carry on implacable struggle against imperialism." It speaks gloomily of the presence in Europe of 300,000 American troops "armed with the newest types of weapons," as if to suggest war could break out at any time.

"A sincere diplomat," Joseph Stalin once said, "is like dry water or wooden iron." His belief that there could be no such thing as sincerity in diplomacy was demonstrated on occasion, the 1939 Nazi-Soviet pact, for example. International conferences can be tools of diplomacy, and throughout their half century of power, Soviet leaders always have gone in heavily for such gatherings which rarely produced anything real.

A "security" conference this time might not appear to mean much, to produce anything real or bear visible fruit right away, but the Kremlin leaders are not likely to expect that of it. The purposes are longer rangers.

Moscow unquestionably would regard the conference as a useful propaganda weapon. For the Soviet leaders to expend so much energy on it, there must be a promise of reward.

Louisiana O.K'S Age Amendment

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana became the 29th state to ratify the proposed constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18, as the House gave final legislative approval to the measure on Monday. Three-fourths of the states must ratify the amendment for it to become law.

Before the public service jobs bill could be called up, however, the coalition took the bill's managers by surprise and opened up the rule so the manpower bill could be considered. The vote on the procedural motion was 210 to 182, with 46 Democrats—all but one from the South—joining 164 Republicans in voting for it.

Rep. William D. Ford, D-Mich., a sponsor of the jobs bill, said it was widely rumored on the House floor during the vote that the Southern Democrats were trading for later Republican votes in trying to kill a bill that would strengthen the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Utah Whips Kentucky for ABA Title

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Stars' coach Bill Sharman, wading through a jubilant crowd and shaking hands like a presidential candidate, laughed and said, "I think we've found a home."

The Stars, transplanted to Utah from Los Angeles this season, had just whipped the Kentucky Colonels, 131-121, Tuesday night to win the seventh and final game of the American Basketball Association championship playoffs.

"It was a fantastic year," Sharman said, "especially when you consider we started with 10 almost unknown players. It was a great team effort, like it was all year."

"But Kentucky, with Artis Gilmore, will be the team to beat next year."

"We just didn't hit the hoop when we should have," said Kentucky coach Frank Ramsey, walking alone through the Salt Palace parking lot. "Our boys don't have to hang their heads all summer thinking about what they didn't do," Ramsey said. "We played a good game, but Utah played great."

Utah, on the shooting of Zelmo Beaty, who finished with 36 points, led all the way after going on top 41-40 in the first half on Glen Combs' basket.

The Stars, struggling off Dan Issel's 41-point scoring pace, pulled away to an 11-point advantage with two minutes left after Darel Carrier's three-pointer pulled the Colonels to within four at 116-112 with five minutes to go.

Utah's Mike Butler came off the bench and made every shot he took in the last minute, hitting a three-pointer, a two-pointer, and two free throws.

Cincy Powell backed up Issel for Kentucky with 19 points and 20 rebounds. Carrier, who hit four straight shots late in the third quarter, including three for three for three points each, scored 31.

Willie Wise scored 22 and grabbed 20 rebounds, including 17 off the defensive boards. Combs added 20, all in the first half when Utah took a 61-54 lead.

Kentucky forward Jim Ligon fell in the first half and injured his back. From there on, Utah commanded the boards, out-rebounding the Colonels, 71-59.

Kentucky, which faltered after taking a 32-28 first quarter lead, retained its record of never having won in the Salt Palace. The Colonels squeaked by in three playoff games in Louisville, and Utah took the other four by comfortable margins.

The Colonels, a division runner-up like Utah, lost to the Stars three times in Utah during the regular season. Kentucky got by Miami and Virginia in Eastern division playoffs, while Utah breezed by Texas in four games before meeting Indiana.

The Stars set a pro basketball attendance record for a first-year franchise, averaging 7,122 a game, including the sell-out of 13,260 Tuesday night despite the game being televised locally.

SCA Wins Over John Brown U.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Al Humphries' squeeze bunt in the 12th inning scored the winning run as State College of Arkansas defeated John Brown University 3-2 to capture the NAIA District 17 baseball championship here Tuesday night.

Humphries also struck out nine and walked five in five innings of relief pitching to pick up the victory for SCA.

Unlucky Reds Squeeze by the Phillies

by DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Heydays have been few and far between for the Cincinnati Reds this spring, but they've been making the most of their May days.

Lee May, back in the groove after recovering from a knee injury, drove in three runs with a single and his seventh homer of the season Tuesday night as the struggling Reds nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3.

The defending National League champs, mired in fifth place in this year's West Division race, have won just six of 16 starts in the month of May—and homers by May have contributed to five of those victories.

In other NL games, Pittsburgh edged Montreal 3-2; Atlanta downed the New York Mets 8-6; San Francisco clipped the Chicago Cubs 7-3; St. Louis shaded Los Angeles 6-5 and Houston nudged San Diego 3-2.

In American League play, Baltimore trimmed the New York Yankees 6-2; Boston beat Detroit 5-3; Cleveland smacked Washington 7-3; Oakland topped Milwaukee 5-2 and California defeated Minnesota 3-1.

Pete Rose gave Cincinnati a 1-0 first inning jump with his fourth homer, but the Phillies took the lead in the second on run-producing singles by Roger Freed and Terry Harmon.

May tied it in the bottom of the inning with a drive into the upper left field seats off Phil's starter Barry Lersch. Then, after an infield hit by Johnny Bench and a double by Tony Perez in the fifth, May drilled a two-run single to left.

May, who suffered torn knee ligaments in a spring training collision with Tim Lincecum of the Mets and didn't get back into regular action until April 23, has slammed 10 hits, including three homers, in his last six games.

Dave Cash looped a run-scoring single with two out in the ninth, carrying the Pirates past Montreal and into a virtual tie with New York for the East Division lead.

Bob Johnson, driven from the mound in the first inning of his previous start, went the distance—scattering six hits—for the Pirates, who trail the Mets by percentage points in the standings following their seventh victory in 10 games.

Home runs by Hank Aaron, hot-hitting Ralph Garr and Cleo Boyer helped the Braves repulse a late New York rally at Atlanta.

Aaron belted his 13th homer, a two-run shot in the first inning. In the third, Garr, the league's top batter at .400, connected for the third time in two nights before Boyer's three-run blast, giving the Braves a 6-3 lead.

Marty Perez' triple keyed a two-run sixth for Atlanta, which offset the Mets' four-run flurry in the eighth. Bob Aspromonte socked two homers for the Mets and singled during the eighth inning uprising.

Bobby Bonds cracked a two-run homer and a sacrifice fly as the Giants snapped Chicago's winning streak at six games and maintained an 8½-game bulge over second-place Atlanta in the West.

Ken Henderson's two-run single capped a five-run San Francisco burst in the sixth that assured Ron Bryant of his fourth victory in five decisions.

The Cardinals, who blew a 4-0 first inning lead, broke a 5-5 deadlock in the ninth on Jose Cardenal's bases-loaded single off the glove of Los Angeles third baseman Bobby Valentine.

Ted Simmons drove in three runs for the Cards with a triple and double.

Denis Menke doubled to touch off a tying two-run rally in the eighth at Houston, then punched a run-scoring single in the ninth that handed the Padres their fifth straight setback.

Lonborg's Return Wins for Boston

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jim Lonborg found the thrill wasn't gone. Sam McDowell discovered the strike pitch was.

A hurricane of cheers fired up Lonborg's triumphant return to Boston as the former Cy Young winner pitched inspired relief to help the Red Sox stop Detroit 5-3 Tuesday night.

McDowell, meanwhile, gained a Cleveland victory inspite of himself as he issued ten walks before leaving in the seventh inning in a 7-3 Indian walkaway over Washington.

"I was overwhelmed," said Lonborg, speaking of the cheers of 13,021 that welcomed him home to Fenway Park. "I was shaking inside ... I had goose bumps. I was surprised. I didn't expect it."

Slim Jim responded to the acclaim with three hitless innings as Boston wiped out a 3-2 lead on Rico Petrocelli's three-run homer in the seventh.

McDowell, despite his wildness, had a no-hitter through six innings. But Cleveland Manager Alvin Dark insisted McDowell wasn't going the route—no-hitter or no.

Sudden Sam suddenly lost his "classic" by giving Joe Foy a single leading off the seventh. Dark moved in a hurry to replace McDowell with reliever Vince Colbert.

"Foy hit a terrible pitch," said McDowell, who won his first game as a starter this year. "I threw terrible pitches all night and got away with it. I pitched a terrible game."

In the other American League games, Baltimore beat New York 6-2; California turned back Minnesota 3-2 and Oakland trimmed Milwaukee 5-2. Rain postponed Chicago at Kansas City.

National League: Pittsburgh 3, Montreal 2; Atlanta 8, New York 6; Cincinnati 4, Philadelphia 3; Houston 3, San Diego 2; San Francisco 7, Chicago 3 and St. Louis 6, Los Angeles 5.

Lonborg, the former ace of the Red Sox pitching staff, had nothing but trouble after the 1967 World Series. First he broke his leg in a skiing accident, then developed a chronic sore arm and was finally dismissed to the minors last year.

He pitched his way back to Boston from Louisville with a hot early start this season.

While Lonborg was working his magic, the Red Sox' bats came alive in the seventh on a single by Reggie Smith and double by Carl Yastrzemski be-

Billy Casper Glad to Be Back on Pro Golf Tourney Trail

FORT WORTH (AP) — Billy Casper, a mite chunkier but apparently healthy again, returned to the tournament trail this weekend says it's good to be back—"real good."

The man who popularized swordfish steak flew in early Tuesday, toured the windswept Colonial course and pronounced himself fit for a run at a third National Invitational title.

The 26th 125,000 NIT opens Thursday with Casper, defending champion Homero Blancas, Lee Trevino, Master's king Charles Coody and Gary Player among the favorites for the 25,000 first prize.

With the exception of superstars Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus, most of the top names of the multi-million dollar PGA circuit are on hand to challenge the 7,142-yard Colonial course. Quite naturally, much attention is being focused on Ben Hogan, a five time winner here, who was forced out of the first round at Houston last week with a knee injury.

He is listed as a probable

Scouts and Dads Play Baseball

On Saturday, May 15, a group of Scouts from Explorer Post, Troop and Cub Scout Pack 92 met at Fair Park with Paul Henley of the Park Commission for a few hours of work. The boys felt that a community service project was long overdue and they were able to complete their SOAR (Save Our American Resources) project by helping clean up the park which we all so enjoy.

The boys were assisted by Scoutmaster Harold Sisson with Bill Morgan; Cub Scoutmaster Don Coffield and Webelos Leader Richard VanHorn with Mrs. Richard VanHorn and Mrs. Albert Patton manning the first aid station. When the boys finished their work, some of the dads joined them in a baseball game. The dads really got things going with a big lead but by the 9th inning they were severely trounced by a score of 19 to 15. The participants in the game and days activities were David Allen; Richard VanHorn and son, Joe; Bob Moore and son, Mark; Don Coffield and son Eric; John Aaron Scott; Anthony Hines; Albert Patton with sons Larry, Paul and Scott; Al Roy, Jr.; Bobby Willis; Bill Morgan and son, Clayton; Billie Dougan and son, Donnie; Harold Sisson with son Ricky; Bobby Barger and Ted Tollison. The mothers and little brothers and sisters provided the routing section. The game was followed by a wienie roast and good fellowship.

The mile field includes John Lawson of the Pacific Coast Track Club, who has a best of 3:59.0; Chris Mason, Liquori's teammate at Villanova University, who has run a 3:59.1; Leonard Hilton of Houston University, a 3:59.3 miler; and the University of New Mexico's Dave Roberts, who clocked a 4:02.5 in Albuquerque this spring.

The mile overshadows what could be the finest javelin field assembled since the 1968 Mexico City Olympics.

Adjoin 2nd Game for Chess Title

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — The second game of the world chess championship quarter-final match between grandmasters Bobby Fischer of the United States and Mark Taimanov of the Soviet Union was adjourned Tuesday night on the 45th move.

Fischer, playing white, was a pawn ahead and in a position where he normally would force a win. The game was to be continued Wednesday.

fore Petrocelli's clout. Colbert held Washington to one run in his three-inning relief stint as McDowell gained his second victory in seven decisions, one of his slowest starts in years. The other triumph was in relief.

Paul Blair sailed the first pitch of the game into the right-center field seats and Brooks Robinson unloaded a tie-breaking two-run homer in the fourth in the Baltimore success. Mike Cuellar beat New York for the eighth time in nine decisions since coming to the American League.

Tom Murphy scattered eight hits and won his first game since April 7 as California stopped Minnesota. Murphy, who had lost five straight since winning his first decision last month allowed only two outfield putouts. Four of the Twins' hits failed to leave the infield.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter fired a three-hitter for his seventh straight victory and Rick Monday, Joe Rudi and Sal Bando ripped home runs as Oakland trimmed Milwaukee. Hunter struck out nine and held the Brewers hitless in every inning but the fourth and ninth

Foyt to Be Reckoned With in the '500'

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "Don't discount A. J. Foyt in the 500-mile race," said Louis Meyer, three-time winner of the rich Indianapolis Motor Speedway classic to be run for the 55th time May 29.

Foyt, Mauri Rose and the late Wilbur Shaw were the only other drivers who won the 500 three times.

Foyt, who won in 1961, 1964 and 1967 "is still in his prime," said Meyer, "and the real race is coming up."

The 36-year-old Foyt was the sixth-fastest qualifier last weekend, almost 4½ m.p.h. slower than pole winner Peter Revson and his Mark 16 McLaren-Offenhauser.

"There is no doubt the McLaren chassis is far superior to the others," Meyer said Tuesday, "but it's a long race."

It was even longer when he won in 1928 and 1933, when the Speedway surface still was the original bricks, and in 1936, when the ends and four corners had been covered with asphalt. The entire track now is skid-resistant asphalt.

Meyer has been associated with the development of both the Offenhauser engine used by the McLaren and the special Ford V-8 racing engine used and manufactured by Foyt.

"There hasn't been a basic change only refinements, in racing engines since Harry Miller combined the Ballot crankcase and the Peugeot cylinder head," Meyer said. The French Peugeot won three of the first seven Indianapolis races 1911-17 and the Ballot, also French, was a strong contender for several years after World War I.

The Miller engines became Offenhausers when Fred Offenhauser took over the business. He was succeeded by Meyer and Dale Drake, who put a Meyer & Drake namplate on their engines, but the "four bangers" continued to be known as Offys.

The Ford Motor Co. moved into the picture and developed the special V-8 with which the late Jimmy Clark of Scotland won the 1965 Indy 500 in a Lotus—two years later than expected.

Southland to Greet 2 New Members

BEAUMONT, Tex., (AP) — The Southland Conference will meet in special session in Ruston, La., May 28-29 to admit Louisiana Tech and the University of Southwestern Louisiana to membership in the conference.

The meeting of faculty representatives and athletic directors was called by Sam Gennuso of Arkansas State University, president of the conference. Louisiana Tech at Ruston and University of Southwestern Louisiana at Lafayette were granted permission to withdraw from the 23-year-old Gulf States Conference by the Louisiana State Board of Education on May 14, paving the way for entry into the Southland Conference.

Official invitations to the two Louisiana institutions to join the Southland were issued at a meeting on February 5 in Beaumont.

Charter members of the Southland, which determined its first Championship in the 1963-64 basketball season, are four Texas schools — Abilene Christian at Abilene, Trinity at San Antonio, Lamar Tech at Beaumont, and University of Texas at Arlington — and Arkansas State University at Jonesboro.

"We are absolutely delighted that Louisiana Tech and USL have accepted our invitations to become members of the Southland Conference family," Gennuso said. "We have watched their progress closely for four or five years and feel strongly that our conference has much to offer them as well as their presence strengthening our operation."

Gennuso pointed to immediate benefits which the two new members will receive, including NCAA major status in basketball, track, baseball, tennis, golf and cross country.

"The Southland Conference is committed to major status in football as well, and Louisiana Tech and Southwestern Louisiana feel this objective is compatible with their own desires for national prestige," Gennuso added.

The Ruston meeting will be the first of a series of business sessions to fit the two new members into the Southland Conference picture. A second meeting is tentatively set for Lafayette, La., in mid-June, Gennuso said.

Gennuso said that Louisiana Tech and Southwestern Louisiana probably will be competing for their first Southland Conference championship in the November cross country run. The two new members will then enter competition in all spring sports — track, tennis, golf, and baseball — in 1972, and in the basketball round robin in the 1972-73 season.

He said long-range scheduling in football by the seven schools has made it impossible to forecast championship play involving all members.

"But we hope to work out our difficulties as rapidly as possible and will shoot for 1974 as the latest date for football on a championship scale," he added.

Sports information directors of the seven schools will meet in conjunction with the conferences involving the faculty representatives and athletic directors.

BUD COLLIER

Hope Lions enjoyed a quick tour of Spain and sidetrips to Casa Blanca, North Africa and Paris, France during the weekly luncheon Monday at the Town and Country.

Lion Bud Collier and Lioness Odell went the trip because of outstanding sales of Whirlpool appliances. They made the tour some time ago with almost two hundred other winners over the nation.

Bud presented color slides and commented on the scenes. They attended bull fights, a national spectator sport, but Bud said he never saw the bull win a fight.

Color slides of the palace in Granada were outstanding.

Basketball All-Star Game 28th

HOUSTON (AP) — Coaches for the National and American Basketball Association all-star game will be Bill Russell, former player-coach of the Boston Celtics, and Larry Brown, a star with the Denver Rockets.

Tickets for the May 28 Astrodome game went on sale today as plans for the contest continued despite objections from club owners in both the leagues that are seeking legislation which would pave the way for a merger.

Plans for the "super game" were announced May 11 by Oscar Robertson of the NBA champion Milwaukee Bucks and president of the NBA Players Association. He said it would show that the two leagues can play against each other at the highest level of competition without an illegal merger.

An Astrodome official announced that Rick Barry had been added again to the ABA roster.

Barry, experienced in both leagues, had been quoted earlier as saying he would refuse to participate in the game in that it amounted to opposition to the proposed ABA-NBA merger which he favored.

"As of now, Barry is back on the ABA roster and we anticipate he will play," the spokesman said.

Some game rules also were announced Tuesday. The ABA's three-point goal system will be used for one half but it was not determined which half.

The ABA's 30-second clock will be used throughout the game. The NBA operates under a 24-second rule. The NBA's official ball was selected over the ABA's multi-colored ball.

TV Sports plans live television coverage of 85 per cent of the nation with the Houston area blacked out, the Astrodome spokesman said.

York, Maine, which received an English charter in 1642 and was incorporated under the name Georgeana, is the nation's oldest incorporated city.

DREAMING MAY MAKE IT SO

Dear Helen:

I'd like to have a Margaret Mead mind in a Raquel Welch framework, but since I can't be Raquel Mead, is it really harmful going the Walter Mitty route?

I'm not impossibly dull or ugly. I'm more like "just ordinary." At my job, I take the ideas that others latch on to and develop them, earning the credit. At parties, I attract the men on the outskirts of the crowd surrounding Miss Glamour-Glands.

So I dream a lot. Over the ironing board, I stun the boss with my brilliance; my repartee sparkles; I'm the carefree hoyden with the computer brain who never gets a runner; who makes a Newsweek cover, but turns down the Playboy centerfold.

Mainly, I'm the girl in the life of the guy in the next office who will surely be a company vice

Candien's Stanley Cup Cut $3,000

CHICAGO (AP) — Their Stanley Cup playoff victory Tuesday night was worth $3,000 per man to the Montreal Canadiens and boosted their post-season earnings to $8,250.

Each Canadian player received $750 for their third-place finish in the East Division of the National Hockey League and $2,250 for victories in each of the first two rounds of the playoffs.

The Canadiens' individual take still was lower than the $8,500 won by each Chicago player. The Black Hawks earned $2,500 each for finishing first in the West Division; $2,250 for each of their early round victories in Cup competition and $1,500 as losers in the final round.

Goalie Ken Dryden of Montreal did a bit better than his teammates. He was named winner of the Conn Smythe Trophy as the most valuable player in the playoffs and that was worth an additional $1,500. He also will receive a car from a national sports magazine.

president in five years because he's Got Everything (except a wife). Over the ironing board, that is. In real life, well—he bought me coffee last Monday.

I read somewhere that daydreamers never win. Should I push Walter Mitty out the window? At least he makes the ironing go faster. —DREAM GIRL

Dear D. G.:

There's no harm in dreaming, if you add "might" to Mitty: like go with the fantasies that MIGHT come true, given a mighty push. (Even a small push could promote another coffee break with the future v.p.)

Few successful people ever made it without the aid of those "Possible Dreams," (though the more hard-headed call them "schemes"). —H.

Dear Helen:

My husband is totally without modesty and sleeps in pajama tops because he says the bottoms make him feel constricted. This is fine, but we have a college girl living with us. Twice now he has traipsed downstairs bottless for a midnight snack, only to have the girl walk in from a date. Luckily, he's been facing the refrigerator, but there IS this picture window by the door. . .

He insists she doesn't notice—he truly thinks so. (Fat chance!) A robe in his own home? Never! Is there a way to stop embarrassing the girl? —QUICK PAPA, THE APRON

Dear QPTA:

One of those mod new night-shirts might cover the situation. Present it with a note pinned to the tail: "People who live in glass houses shouldn't show sterns".

(My husband adds, "Man who raids refrigerator bottomless may freeze assets." But Bob's mirthquakes rate about 9.6 on my editor's "evictor" scale, so his quote will no doubt read, "Be-e-e-p.")

Dear Helen:

Neighbors! My husband is a writer, puts in about 10 hours a day which is more time than most people put in at their offices. Since he works at home, he's free to play tennis at "odd" hours, say 10 a.m. or 2 p.m.

But whenever he leaves the house in his tennis clothes, my dear neighbor (who must spend all her time peeking) either comes by or phones and manages to insinuate the question: "I just saw Fred go off to tennis. He'll never die of overwork, will he?" How can I shut this biddy up without making a total enemy of her? LAUGHING ALL THE WAY TO THE BANK, BUT STILL MAD

Dear Laughing:

Take it from another stay-at-home word freak: There's NO way you can convince a non-writer that writing is work! Even an autographed copy of Fred's book will only bring, "And how many more has he written?" or "Hm-m-m, thin, isn't it?"

Keep laughing! —H.

AMN Upsets So. State in Track Meet

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas AM&N upset defending champion Southern State to win the AIC track championship Tuesday night. This was the first year the Golden Lions had participated in AIC track competition.

AM&N finished with 88 points, followed by Ouachita with 48 and Southern State was third with 44.

Tyrone Frederick of AM&N set a meet record in the 880-yard run and Walter Smith tied a meet record in the 440-yard dash for the Lions.

Frederick ran the 880 in 1:50.7 to better the old mark of 1:52.7 set in 1967 by Jim Crawford of Harding. Smith clicked off the 440 in 47.7.

Southern State's mile relay team established a new standard with a 3:11.5 timing, breaking the old record of 3:13.7. The Muleriders set that record last year.

Two other records also fell during the meet.

Anthony Knight of Southern State ran the 220 in 21.1 to better the 21.4 mark set in 1970 by SCA's Nate Krig. Fuller Cherry clicked off a 14.0 to beat by one-tenth of a second the effort of SCA's David Johnston in 1969.

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Amarillo came up with a run in the bottom of the 11th inning to edge Arkansas 3-2 Tuesday night, but the Travelers still managed to hang on to a slim lead in the Central Division of the Dixie Association.

A bases-loaded walk issued to Bobby Frazier drew the curtain on the error-filled game.

Arkansas had scored two unearned runs in the seventh and Amarillo retaliated with two unearned tallies in the eighth to send the game into extra innings.

Memphis moved to within a half game of the Travelers in the Central Division with a 9-6 victory over Dallas-Fort Worth. Memphis collected 12 hits and the Spurs got 10.

Would Root for Ellis Over Ali

MIAMI (AP) — Angelo Dundee trains both Muhammad Ali and Jimmy Ellis but if the two boxers clash he'll be rooting for Ellis.

"It would be the only fair thing to do," said the noted trainer. "I am not a man if I do otherwise."

Dundee's association with Ellis is stronger than his dealings with Ali. He's also Jimmy's manager.

A clash between the two Louisville-born boxers would be "the most logical match to-day," Dundee said.

The manager-trainer handled Ali when the 29-year-old fighter lost to Joe Frazier in what has been known as "The Fight."

He's been in Ali's corn going back to when Angelo began honing the Olympic prospect named Cassius Marcellus Clay back in 1960.

As manager, Dundee handles Ellis in every boxing department from booking matches to dividing paychecks. His dealings with Ali are limited to the role of hired trainer.

Ellis served as Ali's sparring partner in the days when the Louisville Lip was punching his way to the top as Cassius Clay. And Ali hasn't let Ellis forget that.

Birmingham 3-1 and Montgomery shaved Savannah 3-2.

Murphy and Angels Whip Twins

ANAHEIM (AP) — Tom Murphy scattered eight hits and won his first game since April 7 as the California Angels turned back the Minnesota Twins 3-1 Tuesday night.

Murphy, who had lost five straight since winning his first decision of the year last month, allowed only two outfield putouts as he kept the Twins hitting the ball into the ground most of the game. Four of the Twins hits failed to leave the infield. Jim Kaat, the Minnesota starter, took his second loss against three victories. He left in the sixth inning when the Angels scored their third run on singles by Billy Cowman and Jerry Moses and a double by Ken Berry.

Tony Conigliaro socked his third homer for the first Angel run in the first inning, stole two bases, and threw a runner out at third in the eighth inning when the Twins tried to rally.

After pinch-hitter Jim Nettles slapped a single, Cesar Tovar followed with a looping hit to right. Nettles tried for third on the play but Conigliaro cut him down with a strong throw to Ken McMullen.

How a Nuclear Power Plant Works

The Nuclear Age has arrived. It's here because, as an average Arkansan, your needs for electric power will more than double in about the next seven years. And, as the demand for electricity increases, the traditional supplies of energy sources like coal, oil and natural gas are fast being depleted.

We at Arkansas Power & Light are preparing for your future power needs by building Arkansas Nuclear One, the Southwest's first nuclear-fueled electric generating station. We chose to enter the new age with nuclear energy as the safest, cleanest, most pollution-free source of power known today.

Arkansas Nuclear One will operate on the same principle as our present steam-electric generating plants. Each uses fuel to make steam, and the only difference is the source of energy. Just to remove any mystery about the whole thing, this simplified diagram shows how a nuclear plant works.

And works

Most power plants use coal, oil or natural gas as a source of heat. Arkansas Nuclear One uses nuclear power. It works like this. In the nuclear power plant, bundles of uranium fuel rods are properly spaced within the reactor. Neutron-absorbing control rods regulate the nuclear reaction which takes place. Billions of uranium atoms are caused to split as they are bombarded with neutrons thrown off by the splitting of other atoms. This splitting process, called fission, produces heat in the reactor.

Pressurized water (primary loop) surrounding the fuel rods is heated by the nuclear fission, then passed through the steam generator where the heat is converted into steam (secondary loop).

And works

This steam powers the turbine which turns the generator to produce electricity. The electricity produced then travels to you over electric transmission lines. After passing through the turbine, the steam is cooled and condensed back into water. The water is then pumped back into the steam generator where the process is repeated.

And that's what Arkansas Nuclear One is all about. $340 million for the Southwest's first nuclear-fueled electric generating station. To provide safe, reliable, economical power for your home and family. Now and into the Nuclear Age.

Trial of Negro Sheriff Under Way

By REX THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
OPELIKA, Ala. (AP) — The civil rights trial of Negro Sheriff Lucius Amerson and his black chief deputy goes to an all-white jury in federal court today with no testimony from Amerson to explain why he clubbed a Negro prisoner following a gun battle.

The seven men and five women on the jury are to begin their deliberations after listening to closing arguments from the attorneys and receiving final instructions from the trial judge.

Amerson, 37, and deputy Richard Coleman Jr., 27, went on trial in a crowded courtroom Monday accused of assaulting a prisoner, Wilbert Dean Harris, following a shootout at the Macon County jail in nearby Tuskegee last Aug. 22.
If found guilty, each could be sentenced to a maximum of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.
Defense attorneys—led by Alabama's white attorney general, Bill Baxley, and state Rep. Fred Gray, one of two Negroes in the legislature—rested their case late Tuesday without calling Amerson as a witness.

They had conceded early in the trial that the sheriff struck Harris in the head with a pistol and that the chief deputy kicked the prisoner or nudged him with his foot, but contended it was done in self-defense and without malice.
Coleman told the jury Tuesday he did nothing more than shove his foot between Harris' legs—"with quite a bit of force"—so he could turn the prisoner over on his back to handcuff him.

White House Stands Firm Against Demand to Cut Europe Troops

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon set the line, and it was a hard line: "no compromise."
And so began a campaign of organized persuasion: figures of the Democratic past allied with a Republican White House against legislation to force withdrawal of 150,000 U.S. troops from Western Europe.
The White House deployed its force of five lobbyists, the State Department and the Pentagon set their liaison men to work, all with one set of orders:
Line up the votes to defeat the troop-cut amendment of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and all its compromise variations.
"The President himself came down hard: 'He's a real hawk on this one,' one administration official said.
Secretary of State William P. Rogers took a personal hand, too. He invited uncommitted senators, among them Sen. Harry F. Byrd, a Virginia independent, to the State Department to talk it over. He set up headquarters in a vice presidential office near the Senate floor and, later, in the back room of Sen. Hugh Scott's office, to argue the administration case man-to-man with the senators making the decision today.
Former Undersecretary of State George W. Ball came to Washington, last Thursday, two days after the Mansfield measure was introduced, and campaigned against it in person and by telephone.
Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, the NATO commander, was summoned home and enlisted in the campaign. He talked to Byrd, Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., and other members.
Much of the public persuasion was the task handed Democrats, led by former Presidents Lyndon B. Johnson, and Harry S. Truman and former Secretary of State Dean Acheson.
Some senators who got the treatment, from administration officials or from the Democratic volunteers, said the arguments advanced privately were essentially those the Senate has been debating all week.
That the cut would undermine European confidence in the U.S. commitment there, seriously harm the Atlantic alliance, eliminate any prospect of negotiated agreement for a pullback in Eastern as well as Western Europe.
It reportedly was Acheson who suggested the two former presidents be asked to speak out against the Mansfield proposal.

Under normal protocol, Nixon himself would make direct contact with former president.
The White House said, however, that Acheson advised the administration late Saturday night Truman wished to issue a statement opposing a unilateral cut in U.S. manpower committed to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Truman's message was issued Sunday in Key Biscayne, Fla., by the White House.
By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate efforts to force a 50 per cent reduction of U.S. troops in Europe headed toward a compromise today that—if successful—would phase the cuts over three years and tie them to future U.S.-Soviet talks on mutual withdrawals.
Senate sources said Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, author of the troop cut proposal, is throwing his support behind the revised proposal by Sen. Gaylord Nelson D-Wis.
Mansfield said he is still studying the Nelson amendment which earlier he called "the most attractive of all" alternatives.
Mansfield's comments, as the Senate met for a long day of showdown action on Mansfield's proposal for a 50 per cent cut in this country's 300,000-man troop strength in Europe, marked the first break in his "no compromise" position on substitute proposals.
It raised a strong possibility that Mansfield would agree to soften his position—and thereby increase the chance that the Senate might enact a Europe troop cut proposal.
Nelson's revised proposal is due for the day's first vote.
It substitutes a gradual reduction over the next three years for Mansfield's proposal to require a cut in troop strength to 150,000 on Dec. 31, 1971, and provides that the first reduction, to 250,000 by June 30, 1972, would be suspended if East-West talks on mutual reductions begin by the end of 1971.
Additional reductions in U.S. troops would be to 200,000 by June 30, 1973, and to 150,000 by June 30, 1974.
In its original form, the Nelson amendment kept Mansfield's troop reduction schedule but provided that they would not be put into effect Dec. 31 if East-West talks began by Sept.

Arkansas River Funds Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was asked Monday for $25 million more for Arkansas River basin water projects than is in the budget recommendation of President Nixon.
The four-state group from Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Colorado testified before a House Public Works appropriations subcommittee.
The group asked that Congress vote $93.7 million for 65 projects in the four states this year. Nixon has recommended $68.7 million.
Harris Bateman of Tulsa, chairman of the Arkansas River Basin Interstate Committee, urged among other things the approval of $38.3 million for the Arkansas River navigation channel. The budget requests total $30.3 million. The new nine-foot channel now is virtually completed and permits navigation upstream to near Tulsa.
Bateman said the waterway is starting to reverse what has been a population decline in the area and "we are confident that it will accelerate as industry takes advantage of our merging opportunities made possible by these developments."
The group asked for approval of $400,000 for a study of the feasibility of extending navigation first to Great Bend, Kan., and then upstream to the Marin Dam in Colorado.
Among larger increases the group asked, as compared with budget recommendations, were: Arkansas River navigation channel, $23,300,000 compared with a $16,225,000 budget request; Fringpan-Arkansas in Colorado, $24,247,000 compared with $18,897,000; Ozark Dam in Arkansas, $9,700,000 against $8,800,000; Skiatook Lake in Oklahoma, $3,296,000 and nothing; Trinidad Lake in Colorado, $3,500,000 against $1,800,000; Oologah Lake in Oklahoma, $1 million against $500,000; Dodge City in Kansas, flood control $500,000 and nothing.

E. R. Coleman of Dowdy, Ark., asked the subcommittee to approve a total of $270,000 this year to continue planning for the Bell Foley Dam on Strawberry River in north central Arkansas. This is $95,000 above budget recommendations. He said the dam would avert damaging annual floods on the river.
Charles Maynard, a vice president of the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce, told subcommittees of the House and Senate Monday that funds were needed to build recreational areas near Little Rock as part of the Arkansas River navigation system.
"It is ironic that at this time the city of Little Rock ... is not served by a recreational area nor is there a facility for launching boats into the river," Maynard said.
He said it would take $6 million to complete the planned recreational program in the area.
Maynard and Wayne Bennett of Lonoke, president of the Arkansas Basin Association, also asked the committees to support navigation studies on Mulberry River, Fourche Bayou, Cadron Creek and Bayou Bartholomew. Bennett asked for funds for completion of the study on environmental impact and engineer design to Pine Mountain Dam on Lee Creek.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Twitching Heart Causes Dizziness

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I was in the hospital because I had dizzy spells when I changed positions after lying down or getting up and they found a heart condition (fibrillation). Now I am taking digitalis. Can you explain this condition and what I can do to strengthen my muscles? I am 65 years old and live in an apartment. I do not work or exercise.

Dear Reader—The type of fibrillation you have is atrial fibrillation which means the top part of your heart twitches (fibrillates) at a very rapid rate.

The atria are the large s a c k e compartments at the top of the heart that collect the blood before it is dumped into the heavy muscular part of the heart. Normally these contract once during each heart cycle to expel their blood into the muscular chambers of the heart. In the normal individual under resting conditions they should contract about 70 or 80 times a minute.

When the atria are fibrillating this may occur as rapidly as 500 times a minute. A large number of these rapid impulses may be transmitted to the pumping part of the heart and cause it to beat irregularly and too fast. When this condition affects the circulation enough to interfere with the amount of blood the heart can pump, a person will note the problem you described.

The most common cause of persistent fibrillation in a person in your age group is atherosclerosis, or fatty deposits in the arteries to the heart. The speed and to some extent the regularity of the heart is often controlled by one of the digitalis medicines like you are taking. In fact, some individuals who have fibrillation without having any underlying heart problems (sometimes seen in young people) will develop a normal heart beat after taking digitalis.

I can't really recommend any exercise that will strengthen your muscles without knowing more about you. If atherosclerosis has caused your problem, you should not try to do a lot of strenuous exercise.

You should talk this over with your doctor, but if you are doing well and not having symptoms, the most appropriate exercise for you would be walking.

There is no need to walk too fast or try to walk too far at any one time. Walking is wonderful exercise and as long as you don't try to accomplish too much too fast it helps the overall body condition and generally will not overload the heart.

I would like to emphasize again, though, that you should not start any exercise program without talking it over with your doctor.
